PRESIDENT FLINGS CHALLENGE AT SENATE

Accept Treaty as It Stands or Reject It.

MAKES TWO ADDRESSES

Thousand Cheer His Speeches in Denver and Pueblo During Day.

PUEBLO, Colo., Sept. 25.—Reducing his fight for the peace treaty to a direct issue of acceptace or rejection, President Wilson today invited the senate to take a definite unmistakable stand one way or the other.

After declaring it would be his duty as chief executive to judge whether the senate's action constituted acceptance or rejection, should reservations be incorporated in the ratification the president added that he did not consider "qualified adoption" as adoption in fact. He said however, that he saw no objection to mere interpretations.

In two addresses in Colorado during the day Mr. Wilson reiterated that the whole controversy had resolved itself into a question whether the United States should go into the league of nations or stay out. It was time, he said, that the nation knew where it was to stand.

Meanwhile while house officials in the presidential party permitted it to become known proposed reservations which the president quoted in recent speeches, and which he announced he would regard as a rejection of the treaty, was one he had been informed was agreed on by several Republican senate leaders.

First Speech of Day.

The president's first speech of the day was at a morning meeting in Denver and later he addressed a crowd which filled the municipal hall here. Cheers interrupted his declarations at the two meetings and in each city cheering greeted him as he passed thru the streets.

At every station along the way the people had gathered to see his train and at Colorado Springs, where a short stop was made, he was given a warm welcome by a crowd which thronged the station plaza and overflowed into the adjoining streets. Before his speech here he drove thru the state fair grounds where another crowd cheered him.

In his Pueblo address, the president said the chief pleasure of his countrywide trip was that it had nothing to do with his personal fortunes. He repeated his charge that organized propaganda was opposing the treaty and that it proceeded from "hyphens."

"Any man who carries a hyphen about him," he said, "carries a dagger which he is ready to plunge into the vitals of the Republic. If I can catch a man with a hyphen in this great contest I will know that I have caught an enemy of the republic."

Reviewing the treaty provisions the president stressed the self-determination and labor features asserting that if the treaty failed there would be no great international tribunal before which labor could bring its requests for better conditions.

"What we want to do with the great labor questions," he said, "is to lift them into the light."

Takes up League of Nations

Going on to the league of nations covenant, he declared it was necessary for carrying out the peace terms. For the same reasons, he asserted, the covenant would be incorporated in the treaties with Austria, Hungary, Bulgaria and Turkey, now under negotiations at Versailles.

Referring to objections that the United States might be at a disadvantage in the league, Mr. Wilson said that whoever said that "either was falsifying or he hadn't read the covenant."

He added that there was no validity in the argument that the British empire could out vote the other nations, because the empire's six votes are in the assembly which is only the "talking body" of the league. The real power of action, he said, was in the council whose decisions must be unanimous.

Paying a tribute to the British colonies the president asked whether Canada was not more likely to agree with the United States than with Great Britain. He made a plea that language of jealousy be swept aside and that Americans should be "big enough to look at the question in its true light."

The Shantung Question

The president went into the Shantung settlement at length, declaring it was the league of nations which would give China her opportunity to free herself from the inroads made upon her by other nations. The disposition of Shantung, he said, was the best that could be obtained at the time. These and other objections had been unmistakably arranged, he continued and the debate had settled down upon the "heart of the covenant," the celebrated article ten, under which the league members agree to respect and preserve one another's territorial integrity against external aggression. There was nothing worth considering in the other objections, he said, adding:

"But there is something in article ten which you ought to realize and ought to accept or reject."

Under the wording of the arti-

STATEMENT ISSUED BY GARY

New York, Sept. 2.—After being shown an Associated Press dispatch quoting John Fitzpatrick, directr beneral f the steel strike, as saying the walkout would end immediately if the United States Steel corporation would arbitrate differences, Elbert H. Gary, directing head of the corporation, declared in a statement tonight, believed the board of directors speaking for himself, that he "cannot negotiate or confer with Mr. Fitzpatrick or his associates."

Mr. Gary wrote a statement which reads:

"The board of directors of the United States Steel corporation are the representatives of nearly 150,000 stickholders, including from 60,000 to 70,000 employes. We are their ervants and are selected to report and protect their interests and also the interesets of all our 250,000 employes ,the majority of whom I think are not members of labor unions.

"Moreover, I believe iur corporation is under great obligations to the general public concerning the issues involved in the pending strike. In these circumstances I would not, at the present, assume to answer the question propounded to me. However, I will say for myself that in my opinion such questions are included in the present unfortunate struggle. I also think we cannot negotiate or confer with Mr. Fitzpatrick and his associates as union labo rofficials concerning our empleyes, whom these gentlemen have volunteered to represent."

THOUSANDS BACK ON JOB

Steady Return of Men in Chicago District Reported

Only Disorder of Day at Waukegan, Ill., Where One Man Was Beaten.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—Despite the denials of union labor leaders there appeared to be a steady increase in activity at a number of steel plants in the Chicago district today and unofficial reports indicated that several thousand strikers had returned to work. The union pickets at several plants were more active than on previous days but there was no disorder except at Waukegan, Ill., where seven strikers were arrested for making threats and one employe of the American Steel & Wire company was severely beaten. At the Illinois Steel company plants in South Chicago it was reported that about 4,000 men were at work and that six blast furnaces, of a slab mill and a plate mill were in operation. Officials denied a report that negro strikebreakers had been employed. They declare that they are operating with nearly fifty per cent of their normal force and that every man at work is an old employe.

Many Return at Gary.

At the Gary, Ind., plant of the United States Steel corporation it was reported that a slab mill and five batteries of coke ovens were in operation and that a rail mill would soon be put in service. It is said that between 1,500 and 3,000 strikers have returned and that the working force aggregates about 4,000.

Other plants at Gary reported to be operating with a reduced force were the American Bridge company and the American Sheet & Tinplate company.

At Indiana Harbor, Ind., 500 employes of the Inland Steel company announced their willingness to return to work as soon as adequate protection is provided and the mayor and sheriff said that means would be found to protect all men who desired to go back to work.

Officials at all the plants in this district attempting to operate reported that the strikers were returning in small groups, and that the scope of their activity was gradually being enlarged.

Union Officials Statement

John DeYoung, secretary of the union's council for the Chicago district claimed that 97 per cent of the steel workers still were on strike. He said some estimates purporting to show that only 81 per cent of steel workers were out or any such figures included forces at some independent mills where the unions had not ordered a strike.

DeYoung said electricians and machinists at the independent plants of the Interstate Iron & Steel company and the Republic Iron & Steel company were considering a walk out in sympathy with employes now on strike.

Those crafts would hold a meeting tomorrow to decide on a line of action, he said.

BAKERS CLOSE CONVENTION

Chicago, Sept. 25.—Gordon Smith of Mobile, Ala., was elected president of the American association of the baking industry which closed its twenty-second convention tonight with an address by Claudia Quigley Murphy of Washington, representing the women's national economic committee.

"This is no time for Social excursions but a time to stay at home and save," was Mrs. Murphy's observation on present conditions.

NO NEW DEVELOPMENTS IN BIG STEEL STRIKE

Both Sides Remain Firm on Their Stand.

NO SERIOUS DISORDER

Present Indications Point to a Bitter and Prolonged Struggle.

Indications last night were that the great steel strike, entering its fifth day, might prove a prolonged struggle, for following a statement by John Fitzpatrick, director general of the strike, that the walkout could be ended immediately if the United States Steel corporation would agree to arbitrate, Elbert H. Gary, directing head of the corporation, gave it as his personal opinion that, because of "moral principles" involved in the struggle, the directors could not deal with the Union Labor leaders.

A similar stand was taken by E. G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel Company, who replying last night to demands of his 35,000 employes, who have threatened to strike unless granted a conference refused to negotiate with the steel workers' national committee.

At Washington.

Mr. Fitzpatrick appeared in Washington before the senate labor committee which is seeking a way to remedy the situation and made his declaration concerning the manner in which the strike could be brought to an end. At the close of the hearing, Senator Kenyon, chairman of the committee announced Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor would be questioned today and William Z. Foster, secretary of the strikers' national committee, tomorrow.

Mr. Gary will appear next Wednesday to present the employers' side of the controversy.

From Different Zones.

Developments in the zone of action yesterday weer:

1—Pittsburgh district: Neither side claimed any great gains, altho each contended the flow of labor was going its way.

2—Chicago district: A number of plants showed an apaprent increase of activity, but claims of employers that several thousand men had returned were stoutly denied by strike leaders.

3—Ohio district: Industry has been almost completely paralyzed, but skilled and semi-skilled workers in the Mahoning Valley have called a meeting for today to vote on return.

4—Buffalo district: Three unions of great lakes steamship workers voted for sympathetic strike.

5—Colorado district: Conference held last night at Pueblo between workers and officials of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company to seek basis of settlement.

Yesterday was marked by absence of serious disorder. Interest was aroused by arrival in Pittsburgh of William J. Flynn, chief of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice said to be investigating charges of "radicalism" against strikers and of "intimidation" against employers.

DECLARED INSANE AT TIME OF SHOOTING

Chicago, Sept. 25.—Mrs. Emma Simpson, tried for the murder of her husband, Elmer Simpson, who she shot and fatally wounded last April while in a court room at the conclusion of a hearing on her separate maintenance suit, was found insane today by a jury, which declared in its verdict that it found the committee the act as charged. The finding that she was insane at the time of the shooting and still was insane means she will be placed in an insane asylum.

Mrs. Simpson is a niece of John M. Roach, formerly president of a local traction company and she formerly lived in Belleville, Ill. She received the verdict without expression of emotion, but ran from an ante-room when approached by an interviewer and slammed the door. Her counsel expressed satisfaction with the verdict.

PRESIDENT WILL MAKE FIVE SPEECHES TODAY

On Board President Wilson's Special Train, Sept. 25.—With five set speeches yet to be made, President Wilson was headed toward Wichita, Kansas, tonight. Tomorrow morning he will speak there, and with an address at Oklahoma City, Okla., tomorrow night will begin the southern and final leg of his ten thousand mile tour of the country in the interest of the peace treaty and the league of nations.

The president took his first real walk of the trip today after leaving Pueblo, Colorado.

The dispatch adds that the Italians left after the inhabitonts fired on them and that Jugo-Slav troops took over the town from the Americans.

JACKSONVILLE'S FINANCIAL PRIMER.

What Is a Bond?

Answer: A bond is a contract, or note stating that a given sum of money will be paid at a stipulated time, together with a certain amount of interest.

What Is a Bond Issue?

Answer: A number of bonds given by a person or a corporation or municipality promising to pay at a given time, generally serially; that is, a certain amount every year for a period of years.

When Is the Interest Payable?

Answer: Generally either every six months or every year.

How Would Bonds of the City of Jacksonville Be Secured?

Answer: Under the statute of Illinois, the city officials are compelled to levy a tax to meet each series of bonds as they come due and to pay the semi-annual or annual interest.

Has Jacksonville Ever Issued Bonds Before?

Answer: Yes.

What Has Happened to These Bond Issues?

Answer: They have all been paid with the exception of $34,000.00, which is due in installments of $4,000 every July 1st, and this issue will be paid off in eight and one-half years. Jacksonville also has lately issued water extension bonds for $75,000 and one series amounting to $3,750 has already been paid on July 1st, 1919.

N. B. of the $75,000 water extension bond issue, perhaps $10,000 will not be needed to complete the dam. If pond issue is carried, this surplus will be used toward the filtration plant. If the bond issue is defeated, the money will be used either for some additional work that may arise in connection with the water plant, or the money can be used to purchase that much of our own water bonds, thereby retiring before maturity a like amount and of course stopping the interest on that much.

What Is the Total Bonded Indebtedness of Jacksonville at Present?

Answer: $105,250.

What Is Jacksonville's Actual Valuation?

Answer: $13,200,000.

What Is Jacksonville's Assessed Valuation?

Answer: Under the new law it is $6,600,000.

What Is Jacksonville's Ability to Issue Bonds?

Answer: The legislature of 1919, passed an act changing the basis for establishing the equalized value of property from one-third to a basis of one-half and on this basis, bonds can be issued to the extent of five per cent of the equalized valuation.

How Many More Bonds Can Jacksonville Issue?

Answer: Jacksonville can issue a total of $330,000 of bonds, less the bonds outstanding at the time of issue which at present is $106,250, deducting this amount from the maximum ability of $330,000, leaves a total of $224,750.

What Is the Present Debt of Jacksonville?

Answer: On May 1st, 1919, the debt of Jacksonville, exclusive of the outstanding bonds, was $131,142.77.

N. B. By economy, this floating indebtedness was reduced to $129,050.92 by September 1st, showing that this administration has gained slightly but without doing any constructive or permanent improvement work.

For What Was This Debt Accumulated?

Answer: Salaries, fuel, supplies for the water and light department, police, fire department, streets, crossings, bridges and the thousand and one other things necessary to run a city.

To Whom Is This Money Owed?

Answer:

To Ayers aNtfional bank for approved bills of 1915, 1916 and 1917 to which 20 per cent is not added.	$30,496.81
To employes who hold approved bills	42,246.60
To merchants who hold approved bills	54,690.08
For interest due to bank and others	4,500.00

Why Has Jacksonville Run Behind?

Answer: Primarily because expenditures of the city, as well as the individual have been increasing for years and primarily because during the war period, everything that the city has had to buy has doubled and trebled in value, the same as an individual and because the revenue of the city has not increased.

The sub-committee, composed of members of the citizen's committee, made a compilation of the total cost for the expense of running the city ,and their statement shows that for a period of eight or ten years past, the average annual deficit amounts to $13,000 per year. In other words, the expenses of the city is that amount greater than its income and we face today that accumulation of indebtedness and in addition to this, consideration must be given the increased cost of labor and supplies which it is hoped the increased revenues will take care of without creating a deficit.

What Will Happen if the People Should Refuse to Vote a Bond Issue?

Answer: We will have to do the best we can. All departments, while running now on an economical basis, will have to be reduced more. The city will undoubtedly have many suits against it for the past due bills and there can be no possible defense against creditors securing judgment and probably officials will be mandamused, compelling them to levy a tax to meet judgments.

How Will the Disbursement of This Money Take Place After the Bonds Have Been Sold?

Answer: The city council pledges itself that if the bond issue carries, when the bonds are sold, the ciuncil will arrange to withdraw the money from the purchasers of the bonds on the same arrangement as the water extension bonds of $75,000 were handled, namely, the money will be drawn as needed and therefore there will be no excess of money lying idle in the bank, on which the city will be paying interest, but the council pledges itself to arrange first for the payment of the floating indebtedness amounting to approximately $131,000 which will be paid promptly by drawing from the bond company, enough to do this.

The council pledges itself that it will arrange to draw the money for the purpose of building the filtration plant only as the money is needed.

Then when it is decided on when is the proper time to begin work on the proposed electric light plant, the money will be drawn from the bond company only as needed. By this arrangement no money for any of the three proposed purposes will lie idle in the bank and the city will not be paying interest unti lthe money is actually needed.

What Is the Citizen's Committee; Who Compose It and What Are Its Duties?

Answer: The council asked for the co-operation and assistance of a citizen's committee. The citizens, at a mass meeting selected a citizen's committee as follows:

Chairman—Dr. E. F. Baker.

Representative First ward—Mrs. W. P. Duncan, A. W. Becker.

Second ward—Mrs. Joseph Gomez, Bernard Gause.

Third ward—Mrs. Anna Baldwin, Edward Lonergan.

Fourth ward—Mrs. Clarence York, John J. Reeve.

Representatives of Labor Temple—W. J. Hardy, I. W. Eaton.

Representative of Chamber of Commerce—Fred Begg.

The council expects this committee to investigate every transaction, to be present at the paying of all bills composing the floating indebtedness, to sit with the council when plans are entered into for the building and completion of the filtration plant and the removal of the light plant. In other words, the council expects the citizen's committee to follow its actions at all times and any citizen of Jacksonville is invited to participate and to scrutinize.

Washington, Sept. 25.—The public schools of the nation began the new school year with a shortage of approximately 38,000 teachers. JAPAN HAS VIOLATED AGREEMENT WITH U. S.

Declares Western Man Before House Committee.

AGAINST IMMIGRATION

Japanese Have Control of Many Industries in Pacific Coast States.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. — Japan was charged with "flagrant violations," of the commonly termed gentlemen's agreement with this country by V. S. McClatchy of Sacramento, California, and Miller Freeman of Seattle, today before the house immigration committee. Testifying in connection with the committee's consideration of the bill which would permit a certain percentage of the nationals of a country to enter the United States each year, both Mr. McClatchy and Mr. Freeman said that Japanese control of many industries in Washington, Oregon, California and Colorado was being enlarged thru violations of the agreement which forbids the entry of Japanese laborers both skilled and unskilled into the United States.

The Japanese government is issuing passports under anything but the heading of labor, Freeman declared, adding that violation of the agreement was obvious for soon after the immigrants landed they could be found working on farms and elsewhere along the Pacific coast.

Urge Exclusion to U. S.

Both witnesses urged exclusion of the Japanese, asserting their admission is creating an economic menace of the entire country. In California, Mr. McClatchy said, the Japanese produce 90 per cent of the strawberry and cantaloupe crops; 80 per cent of the onions, asparagus, tomatoes, celery, lettuce and cut flowers; 55 per cent of the cabbage and seeds; 40 per cent of the potatoes; 20 per cent of the beans, and 10 per cent of the grapes, fruit and rice. He cited Japanese authorities to support his statement and added that the tuna and sardine fisheries in the southern part of the state also were falling into their control.

In Oregon, McClatchy said, half of the Hood River Valley apple crop is in Japanese control, while in Colorado the Rocky Ford melon crop is 85 per cent Japanese controlled. In Seattle, Mr. Freeman said that hotels, groceries, garages, truck gardening and miscellaneous small business are fast coming under their domination.

American merchants are unable to compete with the Japanese, the witnesses declared because of the foreigners' low standards of living, long hours of industry and close cooperation among themselves with the financial support of their home government.

Increasing Rapidly

Since 1900 the Japanese population in this country had increased six fold, McClathy asserted while the Chinese under the exclusion act, have decreased from one-half to two-thirds in number.

Senator Phelan of California attending the hearing as a spectator told the committee that he had assurances from the state department that it was investigating the situation.

Cancellation of the agreement was urged by the witnesses, who also argued that the committee should send a sub-committee to the coast for an investigation to establish officially the conditions prevailing there.

The examination of McClatchy and Freeman was the forerunner of a general inquiry into the question of immigration to be undertaken by the committee beginning within a few weeks. Representative Johnson of Washington, committee chairman said that the hearings would be the basis for legislation as to a future immigration policy.

ORDERS RELEASE OF REFRIGERATOR CARS

Washington, Sept. 25.—Drastic action was taken today by Director General Hines to compel the prompt release of refrigerator cars. After receiving numerous complaints of delay in the unloading of such cars, presumably by jobbers who preferred paying demurrage to losing a possible advance in the market price of the goods, Mr. Hines ordered regional directors to place embargoes against all consignees who fail to release promptly such equipment.

The situation in the west and the beginning of the Florida crop movement was said to render all reasonable measures imperative to obtain the fullest use of refrigerator cars.

ORDERED HELD TO GRAND JURY

Chicago, Sept. 25.—Lewie C. Palmer, was ordered held to the grand jury on charge of murder by a coroner's jury today in connection with the death of Mrs. Louisa Brown of Maywood. Mrs. Brown was found by neighbors murdered in her bungalow in Maywood two weeks ago.

GRACE REFUSES CONFERENCE

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 25.—President E. R. Grace, of the Bethlehem Steel company, has refused a conference to the steel workers' national committee, declaring that his company will not depart from its present system of bargaining with its employes, William Z. Foster, secretary of the national committee for organizing steel and iron workers, announced here tonight.

After considering the steel company's reply Secretary Foster said that the national advisory committee had decided to notify the employes of the Bethlehem company of Mr. Grace's attitude and refer the matter to the national committee for organizing iron and steel workers.

Mr. Foster sai dthat the national committee would be summoned to meetings in Pittsburgh at the earliest possible moment. He indicated that the calling of a strike in the plants of the Bethlehem company to become effective Monday morning, Sept. 29 was probable.

The Bethlehem Steel company is the largest independent steel corporation in the United States, employing between 40,000 and 50,000 men, Mr. Foster explained. The company has plants in South Bethlehem, Lebanon, Titusville, Reading and Steelton, in Pennsylvania and Sparrow's Point, Md. He said the workers in the Bethlehem plants are among the best organized 1 nthe country.

BLAMES GARY FOR STRIKE

Declares Labor Leader Before Senate Committee.

Conference with Workers by Steel Head Would Have Avoided Walkout.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Appearing as labor's first witness in the senate investigation of the steel strike John Fitzpatrick of Chicago, chairman of the strikers' committee declared that an agreement by the United States Steel Corporation to arbitrate differences with its employes would result in an immediate end of the walkout, which he said now affects 340,000 men.

Fitzpatrick's statements came after a six hour recital before the senate labor committee of the efforts to organize the steel workers and of the conditions which led up to the strike. Had Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of the steel corporation met the workers' committee the men would not have walked out, Fitzpatrick said, but an agreement for a conference now would not result in the men returning to work.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor and chairman of the first committee formed to organize the first steel workers will be heard by the committee tomorrow. On Saturday William Z. Foster, secretary of the workers' committee who has been charged by Representative Cooper, Republican, Ohio, with spreading I. W. W. propaganda will be heard.

Gary Called Next Week.

Mr. Gary is to appear next Wednesday to present the steel corporations' side of the controversy. In his recital today Fitzpatrick said there was a reign of blood and iron in the steel districts of Western Pennsylvania, with deputy sheriffs, "paid gunmen" and state constabulary as its chief exponents. Murder and assault of steel workers were of every day occurence, he alleged, and in this connection he sketched the story of the killing of one woman, an organizer of mine workers, which happened before the steel strike was called.

"Do you feel that the steel company officials directly ordered the killing of this woman?" Senator Sterling, Republican, South Dakota, asked.

"Yes, I do," Fitzpatrick replied.

"Think they had a meeting, and decided upon murder?"

"Oh, I don't think they passed a motion and left a record, if that's what you mean."

Elsewhere in the steel industry, the witness said, striking workers were meeting with fair treatment.

Purposes of Strike.

Describing the general purposes of the strike Fitzpatrick said organization of the steel industry had been decided upon by the American Federation of Labor because it was a bad spot in the industrial situation with the men forced to work long hours at small wages and under bad conditions.

With the actual calling of the strike a list of twelve demands had been made upon which the 24 unions had combined, Fitzpatrick said. These demands include recognition of collective bargaining the eight hour day, reinstatement with pay of all men discharged for union activities and adoption of the "check off" system, by which the companies would collect union dues from the men. Wages were not specifically mentioned.

On this last subject Fitzpatrick had two views.

"The industry pays less than paupers get," he said, at one point

BITTER FIGHT ON TREATY FORECASTED

Given Only Brief Consideration in Senate Thursday.

NO VOTE THIS WEEK

Senator Johnson Going to Pacific Coast to Defend His Stand.

Washington, Sept. 25.—While the German peace treaty received only brief consideration in the senate today outside developments indicated that the factions were lining up for the real fight over the league of nations covenant.

The outstanding feature was the announcement by Senator Johnson, Republican of California, that he would leave tomorrow for the Pacific Coast to keep up his attack upon the treaty was accepted to mean that his proposed amendment to equalize the voting power of the United States and Great Britain would not be called for weeks.

Lenroot Against Treaty

Just before adjournment Senator Lenroot, Republican of Wisconsin, reiterated that he would not vote to ratify the treaty if under article ten the United States was obligated to send its troops abroad to preserve the territorial integrity of members of the league.

Senator New, Republican, of Indiana, and Senator Smith, Democrat of Maryland, divided the day in debate, the former attacking the treaty and the latter defending it and urging speedy ratification.

In the house where treaty talk bobs up now and then, Representative King, Republican of Illinois, introduced a resolution proposing the support of the body for the senators "standing for Americanism". It was thrown in the house hopper without discussion. Under unanimous consent agreement the amendments by Senator Fall, Republican, of New Mexico, proposing that the United States be relieved from service on foreign commissions created under the treaty will be taken up tomorrow.

Senator Cummins, Republican of Iowa, will speak against the treaty and Senator Fall I expected to champion the cause of his amendments.

No vote is expected until next week.

Johnson Going Home.

Senator Johnson's decision to resume his western speaking trip set at rest rumors concerning the British-American voting amendment which now both Republicans and Democrats agree will not be taken up for some weeks. The talk was that Republican leaders told Senator Johnson they did not have enough votes to pass it and that the senator replied he would go out in the country and create such strong sentiment in its favor that the senate would not dare defeat it.

Senator Lenroot in outlining his position said the president had been rather free in his declarations as to what was the heart of the league covenant.

"Since the president started this trans-continental trip the heart of the covenant has suffered several displacements," he said.

He added it had been variously described by the president as the agreement not to go to war under nine months, article eleven, and more recently as article ten.

In asking the senate to ratify the treaty with article ten as it was written, Mr. Lenroot said the president would pledge the word of the United States that it would engage in war to preserve the territorial integrity of nation members. If this article stood, and meant that this country must send troops under it, Senator Lenroot declared he would not vote for the treaty.

That the steel strike has not caused a financial flurry has been a surprise to financial circles. It is believed by many that the present crisis may mark the end of the current unrest as far as general wage demands are concerned.

The board of supervisors of Pike county refused to levy the mill tax this year that had been voted for the erection of a tuberculosis hospital. Morgan county will have a hospital ready for business some day.

Illinois leads the eleven states which have voted on the issuance of bonds for good roads, with sixty millions. Seventeen states will vote on bond issues this year. Minnesota proposing to issue fifty millions of dollars.

Colored citizens at a meeting held in Lexington, Ga., recently endorsed the action of a mob that lynched a man accused of murdering the wife of a farmer. The crime probably deserved punishment, but how can the act of one law breaker excuse the acts of a number?

If the mayor of Gary carries out his program during existing strike conditions he will make a unique record. He said to the police of his town: "It is not our duty to take sides in this conflict (the steel strike) but to preserve order." That is the proper way to talk but can he carry out his program?

RING-AROUND-A-ROSY

Albert W. Atwood, a brilliant writer in the Saturday Evening Post discusses wages and prices in an article headed "The Spiral Staircase." In commenting on the high cost of living the article says:

"The wage earners are blaming the employers and capitalists and the employers and capitalists are blaming the wage earners. Each accuses the other of profiteering. It is a ring-around-a-rosy game with the devil take the hindmost, the only fellow who really profits being the one who jumped first and is still ahead of the game.

"It is obvious that the vicious circle must be broken somewhere, that the spiral process must be stopped somewhere for the more continuous process of employers mutually raising prices and wages upon each other gets most of us nowhere. Each boost may be justified in itself by immediate circumstances but the net result appears to be steadily growing discontent."

MORE WHEAT PER ACRE

Report comes from Jefferson City that the agricultural experts of Missouri have fixed the cost of producing wheat in Missouri at $25.27 per acre, on the basis of a average crop of 13 bushels. This is $1.94 per bushel. Adding the cost of hauling to the shipping point, which falls upon the producer and is therefore a legitimate expense, the total is $2.05 a bushel. With a basic price of $2.20 a bushel this leaves a margin of profit of 15 cents per bushel, or $1.95 per acre. Should a farmer have 100 acres in wheat, which is far above the average, his total profit would be $195. No one will say that this is excessive.

In making the total cost as above the experts claim to have figured just as the manufacturer does, by including all overhead expense, depreciation of plant, idle land, labor cost, including the labor of the farmer himself, and a rental of $8.23 per acre. This rental is really interest on the value of the land and would be comparable to a manufacturer including interest on the value of his plant before estimating profit on its operation. It is 10 per cent on an acreage valuation of $84.30, which is low for good wheat land. However, even were that land rental not considered a legitimate item of production cost, there would still be a profit of but $10.33 per acre, after deducting the cost of hauling to market. No one will contend that even this is a large profit, says the Globe-Democrat.

THE TURKISH MANDATE

"One hundred thousand American troops will be necessary to the maintenance of our mandate in Turkey under the League of Nations," says Capt. S. Gale Lowrie, professor of political science in the University of Cincinnati, in an interview. Capt. Lowrie has just returned from Constantinople, where he was in charge of the Red Cross work of extending relief to the families in Armenia and Turkey of drafted American soldiers, several thousand in number, and is on his way home. "The necessity of so many troops," he said "arises out of the difficult condition in that part of the world. The Balkan question is unsettled. So are the disposition of Asia Minor and Arabia. The peace conference has not yet taken them up, except to urge that the United States take over the Turkish possessions. England is about to withdraw her troops from Asia Minor. She has enough to do in Palestine and Mesopotamia, to say nothing of Egypt and Africa generally. Even so, she is attempting to edge out France in the control of Syria. She hopes in Mesopotamia's oil resources to recoup her financial losses of the war.

"If we do not accept the mandatory, the withdrawal of British troops will result in anti-Christian and pro-Moslem massacres. We have become a world power and must keep our finger on the pulse of the entire world. If we do not maintain peace in that particular section, we shall have to take part in the engulfment. On the other hand the expense will be great and we shall have divided interests in both hemispheres.

"I have not entirely made up my mind on the subject, but I think we ought to let this mandatory alone. Now that the war is over the European nations are already jealous of each other. Any government, no matter which it might be, would have troubles in governing the former possessions of the Turkish Empire. None of the European nations wants the other to take them, but they all want us to do so. At any rate, I am convinced that neither the mandatory nor the league as a whole will stop all future wars."

DO NOT DESIRE REDUCED COSTS

The Boston Transcript declares that it is seldom that a day passes in which there does not come to light some evidence that the Wilson administration does not want living costs reduced. Much of this evidence, it points out, is in the line of official consent to schemes and combinations calculated to maintain excessive prices of necessaries of life. A few months ago there came to light the plea of the canners of vegetables and fruits that they were assured of government aid in maintaining high prices of their commodities, of which the war and navy departments were heavy buyers. Then, as the Transcript shows, came evidence that the meat packers were allowed a margin on their beef, pork, bacon and poultry products larger than the margins by which they were accustomed to produce big dividends in the days before the war. "Next came the wheat director with his policy of holding the price of wheat at or above the guaranteed figure of $2.26 a bushel, by which means the cost of every loaf of wheat bread in the United States is enhanced and profiteers are allowed to exact excessive gains in a long line of grain products including meats. And then the army surplus food sales; these sales, as first advertised in carload lots, seemed planned especially to aid canners, packers and wholesalers. The plan was changed and the sales were thrown open to consumers, because congress forced such action, but even then wholesalers and packers have been allowed to secure vast quantities of the goods, thus accomplishing their double purpose of maintaining high prices and making great profits. But the crowning stunt, when economists are calling for increased production the world over, ecspecially by the American farmer, is the advice from the department of agriculture, that the farmers decrease their 1919 acreage of winter wheat by 15 per cent, the acreage of spring wheat by 12 per cent and the acreage of rye by 12 per cent! What purpose can there be in advocating decreased acreage of these food grains, other than to maintain high prices?"

Rippling Rhyms
By Walt Mason

Halcyon Days.

The happy days of war are gone, and peace's frightfulness is here, when we assemble on the lawn, and cuss the ding-donged profiteer. In war we struck for noble things, to undermine the tyrant's sway, to overturn the thrones of kings, and now we strike for higher pay. In war we loathed the foreign foe, and chased him on his cheap john shore, and now, alas, as all men know, we loathe the men who lives next door. In war we all united were, we had one purpose and one end; but now we fill the air with fur, the fur of neighbor and of friend. I look back on the days of war, that bitter war of four long years, and wonder what we stopped it for, to usher in the profiteers. Far better on the field to die, with fame and glory as your bed, than starve for lack of coin to buy your share of angel cake and bread. Far better meet a stalwart foe and perish where your banner flies, than have a hoarder lay you low, with tricks a soldier would despise. We clamored for the boon of peace throughout the long and bloody fray, and now we yell for the police to take the blamed old boon away.

TOWN TALK

They Use it, Now.

Second-hand dealers say they can buy little used furniture in Jacksonville because it is all in use. Several years ago householders paid second hand men to haul away old furniture, but now the tables are turned, because the dealers rush to sales in a desperate effort to freeze out all other buyers.

The Eleventh.

Here is the eleventh commandment issued by the Public Library Association: "Defend thyself against slang."

Posing.

A well dressed young woman attracted attention when leaving a State street car last evening by her peculiar gait, a combination of the debutante slouch and the shimmy. After leaving the car and thinking herself safely under cover of darkness, she swung into a mannish stride closely approximating the regulation 30-inch army step.

About Women.

Some women are not deserving of homes, in the opinion of Justice Stein, a municipal court judge, who, in 22 years on the bench, has probably heard every form of domestic dispute. The nagging wife says the justice, is a worse affliction than boils, also just about as common. Many a man would not know what a cell meant, in the opinion of the justice, if he had been married to the right kind of a woman. These sentiments were voiced just after a young man offered to pay a fine, because he "had found out what his wife was."

Second Infraction Missed.

Downtown pedestrians who watched a traffic officer lecture a motorist for breaking a traffic rule were annoyed at their inability to interpret the officer's message except through his gestures. The motor was running with the cutout open, and the driver apparently thought it inadvisable to call attention to the second offense by closing his cutout. The representative of the law failed to notice the racket and the car darted away in a cloud of smoke as soon as a final gesture indicated the lecture was finished.

Picking Jobs for the Editor.

Some days ago some citizens were discussing a difficult local situation and they thought "something ought to be done." After it was found to be unpleasant, unprofitable, and risky for any direct action to be taken by any individual or civic group, it was the consensus of opinion that it was the opportune time for the newspapers to jump in with both feet and force the desired action.

Then and Now.

"When we were small boys," said the old timer in a reminiscent mood, "it was the heighth of our ambition to temporarily desert our comfortable homes and go far into the woods to spend the day and blister our hands trying to make a fire by rubbing two sticks together, while hoping every minute that a beautiful maiden would pass by on the dead run, pursued by a ravening catamount, permitting us to draw beads with our trusty rifles, which we didn't even possess, and shoot the monster through the heart. Of course no maidens or catamounts ever came that way and all we acquired was the blessed privilege of crawling home at night, worn and weary and covered with woodticks, but we always felt that we were obliged to go again at the earliest opportunity.

"Now that we have grown to man's estate and flatter ourselves that we have some sense, we leave our cozy firesides to go and listen for hours to blatherskites who are willing to consent at the earnest solicitation of their many friends to accept office. After all, which is the bigger fool, the inexperienced kid or his wise dad?"

Have a Heart, Cops.

It is to be hoped that the work of the local traffic officers in placing tags on the cars of traffic law violators will be better understood than the activities of Middleton, Ind., authorities in a recent instance. The following letter was received by the board of public safety of that place from a rural resident:

"As I was coming home from your city Wednesday and was about twenty miles out and almost dark I notice that the police had placed sign on my windshield and it told me that I had violated the traffic and I am a poor man and new nothing of such law and I am sorry that anything like this hapen it tks all my ernings to mak a living I have not been to the City for 3 years I parked my car on a monument square and nothing was said and we had a tire keep us longer than we would have been there if I haft to pay out this money. I can't see wher it is to come from We kneed every Dollar and you know things is affel high I am (very very) sorry that this happened with me. I am almost 50 years old and never had a word said about having to pay a fine in my life. I am willing to do what is right, but I don't kno much I haven't even got a home of my own. I don't want any cost attached to this. Winter is coming on and I haven't any coal and you shurly know that things is affel high under other circumstances (I don't know what to do? If I had known this of course I wouldn't have put my car on the circle.

Here they are with a representative of the Police Department tying the knot! And only five minutes before he had vision of a minister performing that same feat!

From the "upper crust" to the underworld to get the girl he loved! From visions of orange blossoms, rice and tuneful strains to the cold reality of rattling "bracelets," cold steel bars and the "tuneful strains" of "You're pinched! Put on your hat and come along!" Why did this son of the elite choose to marry a girl who lived on the Bowery? Why did he resort to thievery when, at the worst, he had been but a thief of time.

A SUCCESSFUL HOME COMING

Parlors of the Congregational Church the Scene of Genuine Good Cheer, Merriment, Fraternal Greetings and Cordial Hospitality.

For several days the people of the Congregational church have been anticipating a pleasant time on the occasion of the home-coming and the realization last evening was fully up to all that had been expected. More than a hundred persons were present and from first to last good cheer, fraternal feeling, sociability, merry games and stunts and finally nice refreshments occupied the time. The committees and members all did their part well aided by the pastor, Rev. W. E. Collins.

The people were divided into groups and performed various stunts all of which served to bring down the house in good earnest. Among the various affairs were:

Symphony orchestra.
Charades.
Movies.
Old time spelling match.
Bolsheviki parade.

Guessing contests and various other affairs occupied the time and each was more side splitting than the predecessor.

The whole affair was under the auspices of the Ladies Aid society, Mrs. D. B. Hutchinson, chairman; and the Young Women's Guild, Mrs. W. B. Young, chairman and these looked after the refreshments.

Mrs. H. L. Doan, Mrs. Harry Havenhill and Miss Helen Robinson were the committee on entertainment and both departments were admirably managed and neither has occasion to be envious of the other.

A goodly number of guests, in addition to the members of the congregation, were present and were much pleased with the manner in which the evening was spent.

Students and others are buying Sweaters of FRANK BYRNS' Hat Store where many desirable styles are shown at most reasonable prices.

cle, Mr. Wilson said, the league could only advise what action should be taken in international controversies and could give its advice only by unanimous vote. Therefore the American delegate would have to vote "aye," he added, before congress even could be advised what to do. Article ten, the president said, was based on the sentiments not only of the American people but of the world.

Fourteen Points Carried Out.

Referring to his famous fourteen points of peace, which he said only spoke the sentiment of the American people, Mr. Wilson declared that program had been accepted everywhere and that he had crossed the ocean "under bond" and carried out the peace plan which everyone had endorsed.

The president also read a quotation by Theodore Roosevelt urging that the nations of the world unite for peace and to protect territorial integrity.

Mr. Wilson was applauded when he said the United States was "too proud to ask for reservations which would relieve it of some of the responsibilities other nations assume under the league."

There was more applause when he said he was fighting for the safety of the children and would exert all his influence to see that another generation would not have to go overseas in arms. It was the "dearest wish" of Germany, he said, that the United States should stay out of the league, because that would mean the alienation of this country from other recent enemies of German autocracy.

but several times later he asserted that money was not the issue .

"It's conditions," he declared. "The hours are terrible, the men tell us. The conditions are awful. Their women want more happiness."

Referring to $60 a day as the wage drawn by highly skilled steel workers Fitzpatrick said this was "a mere pittance for the work they do.' Average wages, he said, were around 40 cents an hour.

CLEMENCEAU DELIVERS SPEECH ON TREATY

Urges Chamber to Ratify for Good of France.

Paris, Sept. 25.—(By The Associated Press.)—Premier Clemenceau delivered his long expected speech in the debate of the ratification of the peace treaty in the chamber of deputies today. The whole trend of his arguments in favor of the treaty was that it was one of solidarity between allies who united in war must be united in peace.

M. Clemenceau admitted that the treaty contained many imperfections but said it was the culmination of the work of "coalition of liberation, the first of its sort in the history of the world, as the treaty was the dawn of a new era" He recalled the dark days of 1917 and declared to the opponents of the treaty that if a peace proposal had been received then returning Alsace and Lorraine to France, no Frenchman would have demanded the insertion of any other clause but would have accepted it. The treaty brought back more than the lost provinces; it placed France on the highest pinnacle of fame and honor and in a few years would bring prosperity.

M. Clemenceau warned the chamber that if it refused to ratify the treaty it would make it an instrument of death to France, while if the chamber ratified the instrument France would become imbued with its spirit which would mean the life and resurrection of the country. The debate bids fair to run well into next month, unless the government forces a vote or asks the chamber to conceal the privileges of those who have expressed their intention of speaking. This the premier seems disinclined to do.

JAPAN PLANNING FOR CONFERENCE WITH CHINA

Will Ivite Nation to Discuss Shantung Question.

Tokio, Sept. 25.—(By The Associated Press.)—Japan is planning officially to invite China to confer on the Shantung situation after Japan has ratified the peace treaty. This fact was communicated to the correspondent today by officials, who added that Japan naturally could not compel China to accept the invitation.

"Japan," one official said, "is anxious to settle the question of the restoration of Shantung as quickly as possible, but if China declines to negotiate Japan will be obliged to allow the present conditions as to Shantung to remain unchanged."

DECLINES INVITATION

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 25.—John L. Lewis of Springfield, Ill., acting president of the United Mine Workers of America, today wrote President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor declining the invitation to be one of the labor representatives at President Wilson's "round table" conference opening at Washington on October 6. Lack of confidence in the success of the conference and dissatisfaction with the personnel of the delegates selected to represent the general public were among the impelling reasons for Mr. Lewis' action.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—At a convention convened today on a call issued by the Chicago district council of the federated railroad shop crafts for the purpose of protesting against recent four cents an hour increase and to discuss proposals to oust their international officers, 282 delegates attended. LIVESTOCK SALE AT OAKCREST FARM

FIRST ANNUAL EVENT DREW BIG CROWD

R. S. McKinney Planned Well in Arranging For Sale of Big Type Poland Chinas and Other Livestock—Three Auctioneers Had Busy Time.

R. S. McKinney held the first annual sale at Oak Crest stock farm, seven miles west of Jacksonville Thursday. Mr. McKinney disposed of approximately 50 big tyype Poland China boars and gilts, together with a number of Shorthorn cattle and Shropshire sheep. That the reputation of Oak Crest farm extends over a wide area was evidenced by the record attendance. The big tent which housed the selling ring was not half large enough to accommodate the great crowd of people. There were buyers present from a great many counties who had arranged to take advantage of the opportunity Mr. McKinney was giving to found first class herds of their own or establish new ones.

The most complete and generous arrangements had been perfected and the sale was a success in every way. Col. Theodore Martin of Belleville, Iowa, was the selling auctioneer and was assisted by Col. Lloyd Seeley of White Hall and Col. Finis Seymour of Franklin. H. C. Clement was the clerk and had 'some job" when sales were moving rapidly.

The Price Range

Big Surrender topped the sale at $225 and was purchased by Dunn & Engdahl of Alexis, who are well known breeders of Poland China stock. The highest price paid for a gilt was $150 for Miss Cinderella and the purchaser was B. L. Sheehan of Murrayville. The other prices averaged from $50 to $125. The average price for gilts ran higher than for the boars and there were very few of the gilts that sold under the $80 mark, while a number went above $100. A cow, Mina 42nd sold for $625 to Dunn and Engdahl.

Col. Martin made the introductory statement and received the bids and was constantly assisted by the other auctioneers, who were stationed in the selling ring. The interest was increased by the presence of a number of livestock journal representatives who frequently "broke into" the bidding with very pertinent remarks. Suffice it to say that a Morgan county crowd never saw a finer arrangement for livestock salesmanship. It was very evident to the most unsophisticated onlooker that Col. Martin and his assistants thoroughly understood the important business in which they were engaged.

The livestock paper representatives included D. G. Sutherland, of Wallaces Farmer; F. A. Scott, Livestock Reporter; George Martin, Breeders Gazette; George A. Hunt, Prairie Farmer; Frank Faust, Drovers Journal and L. G. Adams, Poland China Journal.

A Great Offering.

Mr. McKinney established Oak Crest farm about eight years ago and as Col. Martin stated in the opening of the sale, he has not spared effort or money in securing the best. Experienced livestock men were of one mind that it is seldom that such an offering of gilts and boars is made—that is, of animals with such breeding.

Before the selling began the hundreds of visitors took an opportunity to inspect Mr. McKinney's yards and barns and of course gave particular attention to the grand champion, boar, Big Western, weighing 860 pounds, and to Hedgegrove Lola, the grand champion of the last International. There were other sows in this special exhibit group of size and breeding which men with accurate knowledge of animal husbandry could most thoroughly appreciate.

The boars and gilts sold were approximately six months old and the weights ranged from 175 to 250 pounds. That animals six months old weighed as much as the average hog does at 9 or 10 months was but one bit of proof as to what breeding does. Mr. McKinney's guarantee is behind every animal sold and this guarantee is perpetual and not merely for a limited period.

Fine Arrangements.

The systematic way in which the animals were brought into the ring was a revelation to many in the assemblage. A run way had been constructed from the hog sheds to the sale tent and extended into the show ring. In fact, it was a double run way and the moment an animal had been sold it was started out the run way on the right and another to be sold immediately appeared from the other side. In this way tedious delays were avoided, there was no mixing and the animals on sale were clearly in view of all the large company, for the seats were arranged in ampitheatre style all about the sides of the tent. Sometimes there is confusion at such a big sale—that is, when bidders are numerous, but the arrangements were such that there was never at any time any doubt as to whose bid had been made or what was the figure.

All about the farm are evidences of what Mr. McKinney has been doing during the eight years he has consumed in bringing Oak Crest farm up to its present condition. The buildings are large and numerous and all have been arranged with the thought of convenience of operations and for the comfort of the animals. It is very evident that Mr. McKinney is a livestock breeder who is in the business not only for profit but because he is thoroughly interested in it. To him the "game" means more than mere dollars and cents, and there will be no doubt about his sustaining the reputation that he has already earned.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Concord M. E. church served the dinner under a tent erected near the house. Under some difficulties because of the great crowd, the ladies nevertheless served a splendid dinner and they were kept busy clear from 12 o'clock until nearly 5 in the afternoon. Mrs. Mecca Yeck is president of the Ladies' Aid Society, Mrs. J. J. Rayborn is secretary-treasurer and Mrs. Addie Willard is vice president. These officers, together with all the members of the society, were at work and as a result of their efforts a goodly sum was added to the treasury of the society.

THIS Washing Machine is the oscillating tub type with flat, stationary disc. This permits the clothing to be washed by driving the water thru the cloth, instead of dragging the garments thru the water. By this means the finest fabrics may be washed without damage, while the machine does equally good work on the heaviest articles.

—The four position swinging wringer does all the wringing for the entire washing. This feature alone is worth half the price of the machine.

—At this time when it is so difficult to get help, a power washer is one of the greatest labor savers that can be put into the home and takes away all the hard work of wash day.

JACKSONVILLE WILL NOT REPUDIATE DEBT

This Declaration Was Made by the City Council and Citizens' Committee in Conference Thursday Evening—Bond Issue Discussed in Detail — Financial Primer Prepared.

"The traditions of Jacksonville have always been opposed to repudiation of the floating indebtedness of the city. It is a moral obligation upon every citizen of the community and there could be no greater calamity than for us to say by our ballot that we are unwilling to pay our debts unless forced to do so by court procedure."

The above declaration drafted by Bernard Gause was adopted by a unanimous vote at a meeting of the city council and the citizens' committee in the council chamber Thursday evening.

It is a strong declaration and those present believe it is the view of a large majority of the citizens of Jacksonville. The declaration was brought out during the reading of the Financial Primer which was read and discussed section by section. The Financial Primer appears on page one of this issue.

After adjournment it was the feeling of those present that much good would result from the publication of the primer and the mayor was instructed to have a sufficient number printed for distribution.

Citizens Present

When Mayor Crabtree called the meeting to order there were present Ald. Cain, Ehnie, Graff, Flynn, McGinnis, Moore and Williamson, and Dr. E. F. Baker, Edward Lonergan, Bernard Gause, William J. Hardy, John J. Reeve, Mrs. Anna Baldwin, I. W. Eaton and A. W. Becker of the citizens committee. There also was present C. A. Johnson and Clarence York who took part in the discussion.

Dr. Baker, chairman of the citizens' committee, was called upon by Mayor Crabtree. Dr. Baker said that he did not know of anything that could be done except to go on with the election.

John J. Reeve was of the opinion that the main thing was to get the vote to the polls.

Says Its Community Question

Edward Lonergan said that he believed that the citizens were interested in the proposition as much as the city council and the citizens' committee. He thought it was up to the people to see that the bond issue carried and he believed that they would see to it.

Asked by Mayor Crabtree if he had talked with anyone who had objected to putting the three propositions under one head, Mr. Lonergan replied that he had not talked with a single person who was opposed to the plan. The speaker stated that he had heard that some were opposed to the plan but he had not talked with any of them.

Mayor Crabtree explained that it was first talked of putting each proposition on a separate ballot and let it stand or fall on its own merits.

"There was this disadvantage," the mayor said, in doing this, "and that was that if there was a surplus from any one of the funds under such an arrangement that the money could not be used for any other purpose. By the method adopted if there was a surplus from the floating indebtedness it could be used for the filtration plant and if there was a surplus from the building of the filtration plant that it sould be used for moving and rebuilding the ilght plant."

Council Should Take Part.

Bernard Gause was of the opinion that the mayor and the city council should take an active part in the bond election. They were more familiar with it than the average citizen and he believed their participation in the campaign would have great weight.

Charles A. Johnson suggested that it would be well to let the citizens know just how the money was to be apportioned. He thought that this publicity would be of benefit in carrying the proposition.

William [illegible] suggested that partic[illegible]d cashed warrants a[illegible]ount should refund all [illegible] reasonable interest charge to the city. This brought out in discussion that this would be impossible as some of the approved bills had been sent out of the city as collateral.

Ald. Cain said that his firm had cashed some of the approved bills and had sent them to Minneapolis as payment for flour.

Few Bills Held by Banks

It was also brought out that but few, if any, of the bills on which a big discount had been made that were held by the banks of the city. Ald. Graff said that the approved bills held by the Ayers National bank were bills approved before the 20 per cent was added and that they were taken by the bank under contract and were drawing the legal rate of 6 per cent until paid.

This statement was corroborated by City Clerk Pyatt who said the bills held by the Ayers bank were for the years of 1915, 16, and 17 and the twenty per cent was not added until 1918. Mayor Crabtree and C. A. Johnson said their banks did not hold any of the paper.

Edward Lonergan sad that it was largely the fault of the holder of the approved bill and not the bankers and merchants that a big discount was taken for cashing the claims. Mr. Lonergan was of the opinion if the holder of an approved bill who owed a merchant had gone to him and told him to take the amount owed out of the bill and deduct the legal rate of interest that the merchant would have done so if the holder had told him that if he did not do so that he would hold it and let the merchant wait until it was cashed.

Will Print Financial Primer

It was finally decided to have the financial primer printed in both of the daily papers and the mayor was instructed to have a sufficient number of pamphlets printed up to 10,000 for distribution for the enlightenment of the voters.

When adjournment was taken it was felt that a great deal had been accomplished. It was the sense of the meeting that another conference be held, the mayor to issue the call when he deemed it best.

SURPRISE PARTY GIVEN NEAR WINCHESTER

Willis McEvers Surprised on Birthday by Members of Winchester and Roodhouse I. O. O. F. Lodges — Mrs. Thomas O'Donnell Entertains — Other Items from Winchester.

Winchester, Sept. 25.—Herbert Dill, wife and sons, Harold and James Landis, have returned from a few days' visit in St. Louis.

Miss Susie O'Donnell returned the first of the week and Miss Nellie Lashmet Wednesday night from a delightful trip to Denver, Colorado Springs and other points in the west. They made the trip west together, leaving this city several weeks ago. Miss Lillian Lashmet, who accompanied them, remained for a longer visit.

Mrs. Anna Coultas and daughter, Miss Ruth, left Thursday night for Madison, Wis., where Miss Soultas will enter Wisconsin university.

Twenty-four members of I. O. O. F. lodge No. 7 of Winchester and a number from Roodhouse lodge went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willis McEvers southwest of here Wednesday evening. They planned the event as a surprise for Mr. McEvers, the date being his forty-ninth birthday. Mr. McEvers was taken completely by surprise but soon recovered and enjoyed the occasion fully as much as did all the others in the compeny. The hours were spent in a very pleasant social way and at a late hour delicious refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake were served.

Mrs. Thomas O'Donnell entertained about thirty young women relatives and friends Thursday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock at her pleasant country home southeast of Winchester. The event was a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Bess Doyle, whose engagement to Mr. Corney of Chicago was recently announced. Games and various pastimes made the hours pass very pleasantly. Mrs. Fred Woodall received the first prize and Mrs. Harry O'Donnell the consolation prize. At 5:30 delicious refreshments were served.

As Mrs. Jesse Young, whose home is near Glasgow, was driving a car to Winchester late Wednesday afternoon she met Oscar Killibrew driving a hayrack to his home. Mrs. Young lost control of the car and it struck the hayrack with the result that Mr. Killibrew was thrown off suffering painful bruises about the shoulders. The accident happened on a hill at the foot of which the Killibrew home is located, and the horses hitched to the hayrack did not cease running until they reached their own barn lot.

Will Knapp and wife, Mrs. Joe Patrick, Miss Anna McLaughlin and William McLaughlin were Jacksonville visitors Thursday.

Miss Margaret Priest left Thursday afternoon for St. Louis to visit her sister, Miss Ruth Priest.

Mrs. Francis Chumley returned Thursday from Abilene, Kans., where she visited relatives for the past two weeks.

Herbert McLaughlin and Miss Lucille Fay were united in marriage Sunday morning at 10 o'clock by Rev. W. J. Evans at the Christian parsonage. The young people will reside on a farm southwest of Winchester and begin wedded life with the best wishes of their many friends.

The tri-county convention of Christian churches held Wednesday and Thursday at the Christian church in Winchester closed Thursday afternoon. The program for the two days was one of great interest and profit and all who attended were of the opinion that the sessions were well worth while. At the noon hour Thursday the people of the local Christian church served an excellent dinner and this feature of the day was much enjoyed by all. Altogether it was a most successful gathering.

ELKS WILL LAUNCH MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN

Will Make Intensive Campaign for Members—Will Erect New Home—Delegates Selected to State Meeting.

At its regular meeting Wednesday evening members of Jacksonville Lodge No. 682, B. P. O. E., voted to begin a campaign for 100 members. The campaign will begin at once and the officers believe that the number will exceed 100 when the drive closes.

For some time plans have been under way for the building of a new home. These plans have assumed such shape that the new home is practically assurred. While no definite site has been selected the lodge has several in view and this matter will be taken up later.

The lodge has been divided into teams and there promises to be a great deal of rivalry. Recently the Springfield Elks had a membership drive and added over 500 members. While the ladies anticipated a large number of people they did not expect quite so many as did come and everything was completely sold out. Between three and four hundred were served.

Mrs. E. L. Kinney is president of the Aid Society and the general committee in charge of the affair was composed of the following ladies Mrs. A. J. Jones, Mrs. R. Dodsworth, Mrs. Godfrey, Mrs. Crabtree, Mrs. Clyde Richardson, Mrs. Norton and Mrs. T. H. Buckthorpe.
